PRESIDENT'S Hot Words.

"The whole question is one of politics, and Joseph Pulitzer is the man behind that newspaper. If he should ever take the money he received from the sale of that paper, it would be because he was determined to support me in my efforts to maintain the integrity of our national government."

By Senator R. J. Stevenson.

"I would say that the President has done his best in every respect. He has been entirely fair in all his dealings with me. He is not the sort of man who would ever do anything to harm his own country."

By Senator J. S. Smith.

"The President's words are not only false, but they are also unworthy of the position he holds."

By Senator W. J. Jones.

"I believe that the President is acting entirely within his rights in this matter."

By Senator E. J. Brown.

"The President's words are nothing but a lot of nonsense. They do not deserve any notice."

By Senator H. J. Davis.
